INDIVIDUAL PARCEL EVALUATION SYSTEM (IPES) FACT SHEET

BUILDING PERMIT ELIGIBILITY

The Tahoe Regional Planning Agency established a new system for determining the eligibility of vacant property to receive a building permit for a single-family dwelling in 1987. This system is called the Individual Parcel Evaluation System or IPES. The water quality authorities of the States of California and Nevada and the Environmental Protection Agency approved this system of the TRPA Plan and it has been implemented as of July 1, 1989. Only parcels with an IPES score that are in the "top rank" of all scores will be eligible for building permits. Currently the cutoff line, determined by the TRPA Governing Board, is 726 for Placer County, 581* for El Dorado County, 325 for Washoe County, and 106 for Douglas County. Any parcels with an equal or higher respective score are eligible for a residential building permit, if the property owners obtain a residential allocation from the county or city government with jurisdiction over the parcel.

The IPES score defining the top rank can be lowered by the TRPA Governing Board at a later date, provided certain requirements are met. These requirements include: a reduction in the inventory of parcels previously considered to be environmentally sensitive; implementation of projects by the county or city to reduce runoff and erosion; satisfactory compliance with TRPA permit conditions within the jurisdiction; and establishment of additional water quality monitoring. The timetable for lowering the score, which defines the top rank, is impossible to predict at this time.

TRPA has set the number of residential allocations allowed each calendar year, through 2001, for each jurisdiction. The local governments issue the allocations. To whom, and by what procedure, the local government issues residential allocations varies by jurisdiction. For information regarding allocations, please contact your county or city government. After you have obtained a residential allocation, you are required to obtain permits from TRPA and local government before you can begin construction. For a free packet explaining review procedures for single-family dwellings, contact TRPA's Project Review Division.

ALLOWABLE LAND COVERAGE

With certain exceptions, explained on the next page, the amount of allowable base land coverage for a parcel evaluated under IPES is based on the sum of the relative erosion hazard and runoff potential scores. This sum or "coverage score" is used with equations adopted by the TRPA Governing Board to calculate the percentage of allowable base land coverage. The IPES scores and coverage calculations are based on a detailed evaluation of a building site up to one-third acre in size. To determine the allowable base land coverage in square feet for parcels less than one-third acre (14,520 sq. ft.) in size, multiply the area of the parcel outside of the stream environment zone (SEZ) by the percentage of allowable base land coverage.

* This score is official as of May 25, 2004.

For parcels with land greater than one-third acre outside of an SEZ, the allowable base land coverage is determined by multiplying 14,520 square feet by the percentage of allowable base land coverage. Additional land coverage may be allowed if a larger area, contiguous to the one-third acre area originally evaluated, has the same characteristics. TRPA must make such a termination before any additional coverage can be added to the allowable base coverage. To make necessary findings in these cases, additional field work will be required. To initiate the request for field work, a property owner submits an application for determination of allowable coverage. In most cases, a topographic survey map will be required in addition to marking and flagging the property boundaries.

There are provisions in the TRPA Regional Plan allowing the transfer of additional coverage, if the base coverage is below a certain minimum. For detailed information regarding the rules that apply to coverage transfer, contact TRPA's Project Review Division.

The area of stream environment zone (SEZ) is allowed one percent (1%) coverage, but no development is permitted in the SEZ or SEZ setback because of the environmental sensitivity of these areas. The allowable base land coverage in an SEZ (i.e., 1%) can be added to the allowable base land coverage for the remainder of the parcel, but can be utilized only on the area of the parcel outside of the SEZ or SEZ setback. In cases where the SEZ is a lake, pond or lagoon, there is no allowable coverage for the SEZ. In cases where the only reasonable access to an otherwise buildable site on a parcel is across an SEZ or SEZ setback, development for access may be allowed.

There are two classes of parcels that have different procedures for the calculation of base allowed coverage: parcels in planned unit development (PUDs) and parcels in TRPA-approved subdivisions, where the TRPA approval allocated the total land coverage allowed under the Bailey land capability system to individual parcels. If your parcel is in a PUD, the percentage of base allowed coverage is not indicated in the IPES score book. For information detailing what is involved to determine the base allowed coverage for PUDs, please contact the Project Review Division of TRPA. If your parcel is in a TRPA-approved subdivision, the base allowed coverage was determined at the time the subdivision was approved and is actually different than the percentage indicated in the IPES score book. A list of TRPA-approved subdivisions from TRPA's records is attached.

CHANGES TO IPES SCORES

APPEALS

There are no provisions in the TRPA Code of Ordinances that permit a property owner to appeal the IPES score of a parcel, if they failed to file during the previous appeal opportunities.

REEVALUATION

Reevaluation of the IPES score can be processed if there is new information available, which was not known to the field evaluation team at the time of the evaluation, such as, access easements or boundary adjustments which result in substantial reconfiguration of the parcel. Reevaluation shall not include determination, with respect to the IPES criteria being properly applied.

WATER QUALITY IMPROVEMENT PROJECTS

TRPA can change IPES scores if ongoing water quality monitoring programs detect a significant change in the water quality of the area in which the parcel is located, or if local government implements new projects which reduce runoff and erosion problems in the area of the parcel. If projects are completed related to the condition of the watershed or erosion control improvements, TRPA will notify property owners of changes to their IPES score.

LIMITED INCENTIVE PROGRAM

There are provisions in the TRPA Code Of Ordinances for owners of vacant parcels to increase their IPES score under a limited incentive program by providing for offsite water quality improvements. There are two options a property owner can use to participate in the program; one is to implement an offsite water quality improvement project, the other is to contribute to a water quality mitigation fund.

To implement a project, the owner of a parcel submits a complete project application with cost schedule breakdowns for a proposed offsite water quality improvement project that would mitigate water quality problems identified in the urban portion of the TRPA Capital Improvements Program (CIP). TRPA will determine the appropriate number of points commensurate with the proposed water quality improvement project.

By contributing to a water-quality mitigation fund, the owner of a parcel submits an application with a $101.00 fee to increase the IPES score for a parcel, a maximum of ten percent (10%) of the current cutoff line defining the top-ranked parcels. Example: initial IPES score (654) + 10% of 726 (72) = revised IPES score (726) for Placer County; (523) + 10% of 581 (58) = revised IPES score (581) for El Dorado County. The TRPA Governing Board has established a non-refundable and non-transferable fee of $672.00 per point for contributing to the mitigation fund. If you are interested in further information about this program, please contact TRPA and request the IPES Limited Incentive Program information packet.

INFORMATION ONLY SCORES

As of March 2002, the Agency has devised a new policy for accommodating Information-Only score types within the IPES program. TRPA will continue to provide Information-Only scores to property owners as requested. However, in the interest of maintaining accurate records in our database as to the 'Official' IPES score on each parcel, these Information-Only scores will only be valid for a period of six months. During that time period the property owner has the option of notifying TRPA that they wish to accept this new score as their 'Official' score for that parcel. At that point, the Information-Only score will be converted to a 'New IPES' score type. This score will then become the 'Official' score for the parcel and any previous scores will be preserved for historical records, but marked as 'Unofficial'. If the property owner does not notify TRPA of their intent to accept the 'Information-Only' score as their new 'Official' score within the six month period, that score will then automatically expire and the score type will be marked as 'Expired' in our database. TRPA will provide all property owners with a 30 day written notice of any 'Information-Only' scores that are about to expire.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

You may contact TRPA's IPES Project Office, if you have questions regarding your IPES score. If you have building permit questions, contact TRPA's Project Review Division.

IPES ELEMENTS

1. Relative Erosion Hazard (REH) is the measure of the potential for erosion, which is based on inherent erodibility of the soil, gradient of terrain, and frequency and duration of rainfall. The inherent erodibility of the soil, expressed as the K factor, generally ranges from .02 to .64. Higher values indicate more erosive soils. Gradient is factored into the evaluation by combining slope segments measured in the field to derive a length/slope (LS) value. LS values range from .1 on flat sites, to 14.0 on steep sites. The rainfall factor (R) values ranging from 30 along the east shore to 90 in upper Ward Valley. The higher the REH score the less potential there is for erosion (450 max. pts)
2. Runoff Potential is a function of the soil's ability to infiltrate precipitation and the extent of existing ground cover, such as grasses, shrubs and forest litter. The potential for surface runoff is less when infiltration rates are high and there is substantial ground cover present. (200 max. pts.)
3. Access to Building Site is an evaluation of amount of site disturbance required to construct a driveway and garage and parking area. The gradient of the terrain at the point of access and the degree of difficulty for excavation, which is based on soil characteristics, are factored into the score. In cases where there is existing parking or driveway the evaluation will consider if there is a need for additional construction of excavation on site. If access cannot be located to avoid disturbance to an SEZ, the score is reduced. (170 max. pts.)
4. Stream Environment Zones, if present, are mapped for each parcel. If the SEZ will be disturbed by connections for sewer, water, or electricity, points are reduced depending on the extent of disturbance. (110 max. pts.)
5. Condition of Watershed is based on the potential for a particular watershed to deliver nutrients and sediments to Lake Tahoe. The 64 watersheds in the region were each assigned a score based on stream-flow loads, the extent of existing land coverage compared to allowable land coverage, and the amount of precipitation. (70 max. pts.)
6. Ability to Revegetate evaluates soil properties, which limit the plant species that can be used to revegetate areas disturbed during construction. The slope, aspect, and elevation of the parcel affect the potential success for revegetation. Parcels receiving the lowest scores are those that have the following characteristics: above 7,000 ft. in elevation; soil characteristics limiting plant selection; steep terrain; and southerly aspect. (50 max pts.)
7. Need for Water Quality Improvements in Vicinity of Parcel is based on the need for paving roads, stabilizing slopes, installing storm drain improvements and revegetation of disturbed areas in the vicinity of the parcel. The more improvements needed, the lower the score. As local government or homeowner organizations make improvements, scores for parcels in the vicinity can be increased. (50 max. pts.)
8. Distance From The Lake takes into account how close a parcel is to Lake Tahoe. The closer a parcel is, the more likely it is that runoff and nutrients leaving the parcel will reach the lake. Parcels located adjacent to the lake and below 6240 ft. in elevation receive a score of zero for the element. Scores increase by ten points for every mile the parcel is from the lake, with parcels located further than four miles from the lake receiving the maximum score. (50 max pts.)

TRPA does not warrant that the information contained in the database is free from error. Said information was, in part, compiled from county records which may or may not be accurate. TRPA updates its database when errors are discovered or new information is obtained.

KEY TO SCORE TYPE:

Appeal = Appealed Score
Info-Only* = Scored for Informational Purposes
Re-evaluation = Re-Evaluated Score
LIP = Limited Incentive Program Score
IPES = Normal IPES Score
New IPES = Info Only Score Made Official

*This publication represents only the official IPES score on active parcels (currently vacant and owned by private interests). Info-Only and Expired score types cannot be official and therefore will not appear in this book. All evaluations that have been done on a parcel, including Info-Only and Expired score types, are however archived in our electronic IPES database.
